

The Stearns-Knight

“IT’S a car far in advance of anything before produced—always silent and vibrationless—a car that takes a sharp hill at slow speed, or rushes up with quiet irresistible power.

It’s a car that runs silently along on high, barely turning over, yet with a touch of the throttle leaps eagerly to any speed desired.

It offers an engine that never complains and that answers instantly to the throttle—an engine that is alert, quick and willing—that is never slow nor sluggish. An engine that minimizes gear shifting.

It’s a car that takes the owner ’cross country at an even tireless gait—that spurns hills without falter or tremor—that creeps silently through crowded streets, or answers willingly to the call of the open road. The ‘feel’ of the engine—the touch—the response—all furnish a new sensation to the motorist—a sensation of lightness and eagerness.

And far above all, it’s a car that improves with the years.”
